A death occurred at the Vekol on March 17th which failed to find its way in the newspaper. Mr. Edmund G. Reason, of Michigan, died of consumption, aged 25 years. Deceased had been suffering with the disease, inherited from his parents, for several years and hoped to find alleviation in the warm climate of Arizona. He was a nephew of Mrs. Frank Reynolds, of Vekol.

The trestle for the elevated side track for the oil cars of the Silver King company, at Casa Grande, is nearly completed, and the foundation for the oil tanks is under construction. The trestle is 600 feet long, the center being 9½ feet above the level of the main track. The oil cars will be run up the grade to the tanks, and the oil will flow into the tanks of which there are two, six feet in diameter and twenty-seven feet long. These are placed at an intermediate grade between the oil car and the top of the oil wagon in which the oil will be taken to Silver King.

Father J. F. Monfort was called to the Vekol last week to officiate at a couple of weddings—an unusual occurrence in a mining camp. On Saturday morning the ceremonies were performed by which Mr. Camilo Rangel and Miss Clotilde Duarte and Mr. Francisco Noriega and Maria Salazar were bound together in holy wedlock. At night a grand dance was given at the boarding-house, which everybody attended, and miners from several neighboring camps made a special trip to the Vekol to enjoy the giddy whirl. A jolly time was experienced and the occasion will be long remembered by the good people of the Vekol.

The lady teachers of the public school treated their pupils to a picnic on May day. After school hours the small people, accompanied by their teachers, marched to some large trees in the valley north of town. Here four large swings had been placed for the use of the children. After each child had his turn at swinging, and after some merry games the pupils were seated to partake of the feast of nuts, candy, oranges, and lemonade that had been prepared for them. Shortly after, all glad and happy, they returned to their homes. The teachers deserve to be highly complimented for their efforts in behalf of the young people under their care.

Rev. I. T. Whitmore writes the ENTERPRISE from Hamlet, Illinois: "You can say to the people that we are packing and I expect to be there to preach on the 27th of May if there is no other appointment at the Court House. I expect to erect a brick church and an adobe parsonage this summer in Florence, and hope to help the citizens a little in building up the town. What the Salt River valley now is, the Gila river valley will soon be, and what Phoenix is to-day Florence will be in the near future. There is a brighter and better day dawning and a few years will see a wonderful change in the Gila valley. If the citizens of Florence will take hold with a will, and help to build the brick church, it will be a grand advertisement to draw to such a class of citizens as will lift the town and give it the start it needs and must have."

Death of Pat Holland.

Another of the old landmarks of Florence has been called away to the solemn rest of whose awakening no one knows. On Monday morning, April 30th, Mr. Patrick Holland died very suddenly of congestive chills at the headstage of his irrigating ditch about seven miles from Florence, on the Gila river. He had been very busy for a few days, putting in a dam, and had worked for several hours on Monday morning in water that soon became very hot. While thus engaged a sudden sickness seized him and he immediately left the water and lay down on the bank of the stream under a tree. His serious ailment alarmed his companions, one of whom at once started to town for Dr. Harvey, but Mr. Holland died almost as soon as the messenger started. The funeral took place at the Catholic church at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, and his remains were followed to the grave by a very large concourse of friends and acquaintances.

Mr. Holland was born in the county of Cork, Ireland and at the time of his death was 56 years of age. He came to the United States in 1850 and was in California for several years previous to his coming to Arizona, where by the accident of a forest fire he lost a quantity of wood for which he had been offered $15,000. He arrived at Yuma on the Colorado river on the first day of January, 1863, without a cent in his pocket, and his new year's dinner was made of "hard tack" and water. He was full of energy however, and soon had a contract to furnish the government with hay, and also supplied charcoal which he burned at night. He accumulated a snug little sum of money and afterwards ran on the Colorado river boats as mate for awhile, when the mining fever took possession of him and he went to the Prescott section of the country and prospected unsuccessfully until his money was exhausted.

He then came to Florence and was for a time the herder for a freighter and afterwards became wagon boss. A little later he purchased the water right of the present Holland ditch and engaged in farming, in which he was very successful owning a splendid ranch a few miles above town at the time of his death. His financial affairs were assuming a very satisfactory shape, and had he not been spared, another month would have found him in very comfortable circumstances. He was a man of many warm friends and few enemies, and as his history is a part of that of Florence, his departure is the removal of one of the most prominent landmarks of the place.

Democratic County Convention.

Pursuant to the published call the delegates to the Democratic County Convention met at the Court House on Saturday last at 2 p. m. Bo J. Whiteside was elected temporary Chairman and W. Wood Porter Secretary. On motion of George A. Stone the Chairman appointed a committee of three on credentials and permanent organization consisting of J. G. Hammels, Jere Fryer and Geo. A. Stone. A recess of fifteen minutes was taken and upon reassembling the temporary officers were made the permanent ones, and the following were declared the delegates to the Convention by the committee:

Florence.—Jere Fryer, W. W. Porter, George A. Stone, Bo J. Whiteside.

Owl Heads.—J. G. Hammels.

Pinal.—Rox W. Cavill, by Bo J. Whiteside proxy; G. H. Sarick.

The report of the committee was adopted and the committee discharged.

The call was read and the convention proceeded to nominate and elect four delegates to the Democratic Territorial Convention at Phoenix, May 7, 1888.

Jere Fryer nominated Arthur Maey and Elmer A. Howard, George A. Stone nominated Jere Fryer, and J. G. Hammels nominated Bo J. Whiteside. They were duly accepted, and unanimously elected, and the convention adjourned sine die.

Right of Way Contest.

Application was made to the Probate court this week, by the Montezuma Canal company, in the exercise of the right of eminent domain to secure the right of way for the canal through the ranch of Mr. C. W. Fuller, a few miles east of town. The property is unpatented land and the Probate Court held that it had jurisdiction, inasmuch as the title in fee simple had not passed to Mr. Fuller, and it therefore assessed damages to the amount of $200 for the right of way. Counsel for Mr. Fuller offered objections upon the ground that paragraph 1767, page 315, Revised statutes, provides that "all proceedings under this act [Eminent Domain] must be brought in this district court for the county in which the property is situated."

Upon this ground an appeal will be taken, simply to test the legality of the proceedings and not to oppose the construction of the canal which has its remedy very plainly set forth in the law above quoted.

Picnickers.

A party of ladies and gentlemen enjoyed themselves at the head of the Montezuma canal last Saturday night. They went up in the early evening and after partaking of refreshments, returned by moonlight. Among those participating in the enjoyable affair were the following:

Mrs. A. T. Colton, Mrs. G. H. Oury, Mrs. M. E. Whitten, Mrs. E. F. McCrary, Mrs. W. E. Gull, Mrs. K. M. French, Mrs. B. J. Whiteside, Mrs. J. Lunnigan, Miss McCrary, Miss Elford, Miss Daley, Miss Doran, Miss Elford, Miss Fannie Bartleson, Miss Nellie Bartleson, Miss Eugene Bartleson, Miss Oury, Mr. Julian Laughlin, Mr. Ed Rameis, Mr. Ed Drew, Mr. F. R. Maldonado, Mr. P. R. Brady Jr., Mr. F. J. Watson, Mr. A. T. Colton, Mr. W. E. Gull, Mr. B. J. Whiteside, Mr. Sid Bartleson.

Mr. Ramon R. Corona has an adobe smelter in running order on the Mason ranch below town, and he is driving quite a lucrative business in the way of reducing small lots and samples of ore brought to him from various portions of the country. The capacity of the smelter is about a ton per day, but as the ore treated generally consists of small lots the actual amount worked averages far less. Mr. Corona is a practical smelter and learned the business from his father, who was skilled in the treatment of precious metals.

Messrs. J. P. Gabriel and Geo. A. Small were down from Riverside this week. Their mill is now about ready to start up and in a few days the stamps will begin to drop.

Mrs. Aaron Mason and Mrs. Charles A. Mason, returned from Los Angeles a short time ago.

Miss Minnie Marshall, of Casa Grande, is an artist of wonderful talent, and some of her productions display a real genius in their fidelity to the originals. One of her recent paintings in oil was a picture of the camp of the Central Silver mining company, south of Casa Grande. It is now on exhibition in the company's office in St. Louis, and is regarded as a most perfect picture. Miss Marshall surely merits the advantages of the best school of art and there is no doubt that under proper instructions, she will achieve great distinction in art.

Col. E. A. Howard, now agent of the Pimas at Sacaton, will decline the appointment already made to the Kiowa, Comanche and Wichita agency in the Indian Territory. He will shortly visit the east and take his family home for the summer and then return to Arizona to locate permanently. He has many interests that promise handsome returns and their importance will not permit him to remain away from Arizona any great length of time.

One of the Silver King freight teams became mired in the waste escape of the Florence canal on the Casa Grande road on Thursday, and one of the large T. number wagons was overturned. Considerable delay was occasioned by the accident and the wagon was damaged considerably. A few loads of stone would make these mired places passable for vehicles of all kinds.

Juan Aveneto is building a couple of rooms on Bailey street, between Mr. J. M. Ochoa's premises and Frank Griffith's blacksmith shop, which he will occupy as a saloon, it is said.

The Pinal county delegates will leave to-day for Phoenix to attend the Democratic Territorial convention that meets next Monday.

Mr. F. Elver is recovering from an indisposition occasioned by his taking a fresh cold last week.

The Highway of Nations.

The broad Atlantic is ever a stormy thoroughfare. Yet blow the winds ever so fiercely, and ride the waves ever so loftily, seamen must man the good ships, tourists must brave the passage, and commercial travelers and buyers must visit the centers of foreign trade and manufacture. That atrocious malarial, sea-sickness, together with colicky pains and much inward uneasiness is often endured when Hostetter's Stomach Bitters would have fortified the voyagers against them. Sea captains, and in fact all old salts and veteran travelers, are acquainted with the protective value of this estimable preventative and remedy, and are rarely unprovided with it. Emigrants to the far west should use it as a safeguard against malaria. Seek the aid of the Bitters for dyspepsia, constipation, liver complaint, kidney troubles, and all ailments that impair the harmonious and vigorous action of the vital powers.

Day of Reckoning.

The following is part of an address delivered at Prescott, April 21st, at the Republican County Convention, by Geo. H. Tinker:

We, who come from the sister town of Flagstaff, justly claim the right to expect at least passing recognition in this distribution of political honors and favors. While we may not, in Flagstaff, enjoy the prerogative of holding the dictative rein or the key to the strong-box of public patronage, nor of being the Mecca, like Prescott, where the policy of an entire county is manipulated and molded to conform to individual interests, yet, notwithstanding, I claim that we, of the northern portion of the county, are entitled to the honor of being represented by one, yes, even two, of our citizens in the delegation to the Territorial Convention. We, in common with yourselves, have been summoned here by the party to which we owe common allegiance, to assist in advancing its interests, together with those of northern Arizona. In ready response to, and willing compliance with that call, we are here to contribute our aid in the benefit of the common cause. Why, then, should you refuse us the meager reward asked, since we share equally with you its labors? To me, it seems but simple and scant justice that this convention should accord to the northern precincts some representation at Phoenix.

Seldom are the people of Flagstaff and vicinity honored with other visitors from Prescott than the assessor and tax-collector; and while you may, vested as you are, with the dignity of temporary majority, ignore us as of no importance except as tax-payers, should you desire success in the fall, it may seem fitting at this time that you at least recognize the people of this north of Prescott. Before you refuse this, remember that to all must come a day of reckoning, and while it may not come to-morrow, or next week, or next year, come it will, as sure as the decrees of fate, repaying injustice with severity, and wrong with retribution.

A Model City.

Phoenix is to-day, the most beautiful city in Arizona. It is an American town and is laid out on advanced American principles. It contains many fine business blocks and innumerable family residences, that for comfort and adornment will rank well with those of any like sized town on the coast. The rush and jam of a dense population is not yet felt and spacious and well kept lawns are the characteristics of the place. To such a degree is this carried that many of these houses are hidden in a row of roses, flowering shrubs and climbing vines. But without the limits of the city lie the lands that will make her rich and great. Perhaps not in the immediate future, but still at no far distant day. To a casual visitor the developments already made are marvellous in their magnitude, and the steady growth of both country and town within the past few years, presages what may be looked for later on. Already over $3,000,000 have been expended in irrigating ditches and canals, and possibly a like sum in making the valley what it now is—one of the most favored spots on earth. As acre succeeds acre and mile joins mile, does field succeed field and orchards and vineyards smile when less than a decade ago the characteristic features of the valley were sage brush and drifting sands. But what has been done for Phoenix can likewise be done in the Santa Cruz but her waters must no longer run to waste nor her husbandmen sit idly as now.

THE LESSONS OF "UNSER FRITZ" CASE.

The greatest doctors in Europe don't seem to know what ails "Unser Fritz." This is the case of a man who has been ill for years, and public confidence in "expert" medical knowledge is again shaken.

The effect is a revulsion. Since the fatal days of 1883, many of the doctors of the school of medicine have been abandoned, and all schools of practice are more and more relying upon old-fashioned simple root and herb preparations and careful nursing—the only reliance known to our ancestors.

These methods and reliance are illustrated to-day in a series of old-fashioned roots and herbs preparations recently given to the world by the well-known proprietors of Warner's safe cure—preparations made from formulas possessed by many of our oldest families, and rescued for popular use, and issued under the happy designation of Warner's Log Cabin Remedies.

"My son," exclaimed a venerable man to the writer when he was a boy, "my son, you're yellin' and pale and weak like lookin', you're needin' a good shaking up with some sas'parilla!"

A jog of spring sas'parilla was just as good as a shower of rain, and after fifty years ago was a barrel of pork, and a famous medical authority says that the very general prevalence of the use of such a preparation as Log Cabin Sas'parilla explains the rugged health of our ancestors.

While Warner's Log Cabin Sas'parilla is an excellent remedy for all seasons of the year, it is particularly valuable in the spring, when the system is full of sluggishness and requires a natural constitutional tonic and invigorator to resist colds and pneumonia, and the effects of a long winter. Philo M. Parsons, clerk of the City Hotel of Hartford, Conn., was prostrated with a cold which, he says, "seemed to settle the marrow of my body, neglected it and the result was my blood became impoverished and poisoned, indicated by inflamed eyes. I was treated but my eyes grew worse. I was obliged to wear a shade over them. I feared that I would be obliged to give up work."

"Under the operation of Warner's Log Cabin Sas'parilla and Liver Pills," he says, "The sore and inflamed eyes disappeared. My blood, I know, is in a healthier condition than it has been for years. I have a much better appetite. I shall take several more bottles for safety's sake. Warner's Log Cabin Sas'parilla is a great blood purifier and I most heartily recommend it."

A few bottles of Warner's Log Cabin Sas'parilla used in the family now will save many a week of sickness and many a dollar of bills. Use no other. This is the oldest, most thoroughly tested, and the best, is put up in the largest sas'parilla bottle on the market, containing 120 doses. There is no other preparation of similar name that can equal it. The name of its manufacturers is a guarantee of its superior worth.

While the great doctors wrangle over the technicalities of an advanced medical science that can not cure disease, such simple preparations yearly snatch millions from untimely graves.

The Florence Canal.

[Tucson Daily Citizen.]

Mr. C. Wallrich, of the Florence Canal Company, made the Citizen a pleasant call to-day.

Since the reorganization of the company work on the ditch has been vigorously pushed and nearly four miles have been completed within the past three weeks. The work has been mainly done by means of a ditch plow capable of removing between 800 and 1000 cubic yards of earth a day. The machine is manipulated by three men and 16 horses and does the work of 15 men and 30 horses handling the old time scrapers. Two additional machines to cut the lateral ditches are to arrive and will be put to work as expeditiously as possible.

In addition to the canal the company have located a reservoir site covering 2000 acres, into which they will turn all surplus or waste waters. It is the purpose of the company to build this reservoir sufficiently high that a body of water 20 feet deep can be accumulated if necessary, and with this water the lands lying to the south that are not now within the present ditch system can be irrigated. It is situated about 22 or 23 miles southeast of Florence.

The lands lying along the line of the canal are all of exceeding richness as is evidenced by the growing crops of grain and alfalfa near its upper terminus, which Mr. Wallrich states are as fine as can be seen or grown anywhere.

Mr. Geo. N. Pogue, a resident of Richmond, Ind., is president of the company, and is now in Florence giving the work his personal attention.

Mr. A. T. Colton is the resident engineer. He is thoroughly a practical man, a man of large experience and has the confidence and respect of the people among whom he resides, and of the company by whom he is employed.
